Faith isn't about being perfect. It's about inviting God into the ordinary, everyday things.....

4. Say thank you more often. Are you looking at how to put faith in action? Try saying thank you more, even for the small things. It reminds us that God is providing and is present, even in ways we can't imagine. Every day a thank you walk? Next time you venture out, spend five minutes just saying that for what you see as you walk. You will be amazed at the things you take for granted. That warm coffee? A good laugh? A text from a friend? Say thank you. It changes your mood and your day.

5. When life pushes your buttons—pause, you don't have to respond instantly. Take a second. Ask yourself, WWJD? No, it's not a drink but it means, "What would Jesus do?" It's not a bad thing to recall before you retaliate. Not every fight is worth your energy and being honest, you will never win all your battles anyway. Sometimes choosing peace is the most faith-filled move you can make. Settling a score with someone isn't an act of strength, it's a sign of weakness especially in you.

6. You're not failing—you're growing. You're going to mess up. That's normal. Faith isn't about getting it right every time—it's about coming back to God, again and again no matter how you mess up. He's not asking for perfection, He's asking for reality. You're doing far better than you think, so stop beating yourself up. Bottom line? Let God into your everyday life—your real, messy, beautiful, ordinary life. He's not just with you in the quiet moments—He's with you in the ordinary too. Keep pressing forwards, grasp opportunities however small they may appear and above all remember, you're loved more than you will ever know.
